

Yom Kippur

יום־כיפור

2023 ~ 5784

Happy New Year! Gut Yontef! Anyada buena!
Welcome to the High Holidays with Boston Workers Circle.

The Boston Workers Circle Center for Jewish Culture and Social Justice is a multigenerational, multiracial, and multicultural community where Jewish identity is rooted in cultural heritage and the pursuit of a better world.

*We welcome your suggestions and comments on this event.
Please see the request for feedback on the last page of this program.*

We gratefully thank countless sources and the many individuals who provided inspiring and thoughtful text, poems, art, and music to this rich and moving annual community event.

(instrumental, followed by singing)

2.

Welcome!

3.

Gut Yontef. Today we end the ten Days of Awe, the period from Rosh Hashonah to Yom Kippur. It is a time for honest self-reflection, forgiveness, and healing; a time of cleansing, reconnection, and re-aligning with each other and our best selves; a time of turning anew to better hit the mark.

We acknowledge that we are meeting on the ancient homeland and traditional territory of the Massachusett people. We pay respect to Massachusett peoples past, present, and future and their continuing presence in their homeland and throughout the Massachusett diaspora.

Candle Lighting

As members of this year's Zayen class, the B'nai Mitzvah class, we are honored to participate in our Boston Workers Circle community by leading the candle lighting.

May these lights kindle reflection and introspection.

May they guide us towards forgiveness, compassion, and meaningful connections in this New Year.

(Light candles)

(All)

For the Hebrew blessing, we say:

Borukh ato adonoy elohenu melek ho'olom asher kidishonu b'mitzvosov vetsivonu l'hadlik ner shel yom tov.

ברוך אתה יי אלהינו מלך העולם אשר קדשנו במצותיו וצונו להדליק נר של יום טוב

In Ladino, we say:

Saludamos el Muevo Anyo sigun la tradision de nuestro pueblo.
Ke empese kon el sonido del shofar un anyo de paz i de liberta para todos.

5.

In Yiddish, we say:

Mir bagrisn dem nay yor.
Zol der klang fun trua onheybn a yor fun sholem un frayhayt far ale mentshn.

מיר באגריסן דעם ניי יאר

זאל דער קלאנג פון תרועה אנהייבן א יאר פון שלום און פרייהייט פאר אלע מענטשן

In English, that means:

We welcome the New Year in the tradition of our people.
May the sound of the shofar begin a year of peace and freedom for all people.

With these lights
We welcome the Yontef.
In their glow of contrasting colors.
We discern
The light and dark of our days.
We recall
All the disappointment and joys we have shared,
And the hopes and intentions
We now nurture for the New Year.

[class sits down]

6.

Shehekheyonu (Who Has Given Us Life)

*[The Shehekheyonu is traditionally said upon starting any holiday.
More broadly, it is said as a statement of gratefulness at reaching an important point in our lives.]*

In the traditions of our people we voice our joy and gratitude for our continuing life together as a community.

7.

(All sing Shehekheyonu)

Borukh ato adonoy elohenu melekch ho'olom
Shehekheyonu, vekymonu, vehigyonu, lazman hazeh.

בְּרוּךְ אַתָּה יְיָ אֱלֹהֵינוּ מֶלֶךְ הָעוֹלָם שֶׁהֵחֵינּוּ וְקִיָּמנוּ וְהִגִּיעֵנוּ לְזִמְנֵן הַזֶּה

8.

The Meaning of the Holiday

Tradition holds that on Rosh Hashonah the Book of Life is opened and on Yom Kippur it is sealed. Tradition holds that our reflection on the year concluded and our turning toward the year ahead during the past ten days has inscribed, or not, our names in the book of life.

Today we understand this inscription metaphorically, as a call to right action and justice, to love and humility, to staying awake to our lives and the hearts of those around us.

Some of us fast on Yom Kippur. For some, the sacrifice of fasting can show desire and willingness to turn towards a better way. Sacrifice can also remind us that we are capable of self-control. Some fast to focus the mind on the spirit of the holiday. Some fast to sense hunger, to feel a fraction of the suffering of those who are always hungry.

The Talmud says that after people eat, they have one heart, for themselves alone. When people fast, they have two hearts, one for themselves and one for all who are hungry.

Public fasting is undertaken to acknowledge the harm caused by systemic violence.

Fasting is a form of public lament and a call to action.

Fasting is a communal act meant to begin a process of reconciliation/teshuvah.

Fasting is also a ritual of solidarity to clarify where we stand, that is, with those experiencing harm.

-Rabbi Lynn Gottlieb

11.

Is this the fast I have chosen?

The day for people to suffer?

Is it bowing the head like a bulrush

And lying in sackcloth and ashes?

Is this what you call fasting?

No, this is the fast that I have chosen:

To remove the chains of wickedness

And the yoke of injustice,

To let the oppressed go free.

It is to share your bread with the hungry

And to open your home to those with no home.

When you see the naked, to clothe them,

And not to ignore your own kin.

Then shall your light burst through like the dawn.

Is not this the fast that I have chosen?

-adapted from Isaiah 58:5-7

12.

Kol Nidre (All Vows)

Kol Nidre is not a prayer. Rather, it is a legal formula whose purpose is to void vows of the coming year that we will not be able to fulfill. It has been said that Kol Nidre was used to release Spanish Jews, who had been forced under pain of death to convert to Catholicism, from the vows they were required to make as part of the conversion.

We can learn from Kol Nidre that while it is a powerful thing to promise something, and we should strive to live up to it, when we cannot, we need to forgive ourselves.

We invite all to read together:

All vows, promises, and commitments we make
Between this Yom Kippur and the next Yom Kippur
May we have strength to keep them.

13.

Kol Nidre (vocal solo)

[Kol Nidre has inspired composers, Jewish and non-Jewish, to write musical settings.]

14.

Shema (Listen)

The Shema is often considered the singular statement of belief in Judaism. Many Jews have lived and died chanting these words. We sing the Shema today with many voices: to express our unity as a community, to honor the principle that we must all stay true to our own beliefs and speak them with pride and dedication.

Listen up and to one another, people!
Though we are many, we are also one!

15.

(All are invited to rise in body or spirit)

Shema Yisroel Adonoi Elohenu Adonoi Echad

16.

[The text that immediately follows the Shema in a traditional service says "These words...shall be in your heart. You shall teach them diligently to your children, speaking of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down and when you rise up...."]

V'ahavta (And You Shall Love)

Say these words when you lie down and when you rise up, when you go out and when you return. In times of mourning and in times of joy. Inscribe them on your doorposts, embroider them on your garments, tattoo them on your shoulders,
teach them to your children, your neighbors, your enemies, recite them in your sleep, here in the cruel shadow of empire:
Another world is possible.

Thus spoke the prophet Roque Dalton:
*All together they have more death than we,
but all together, we have more life than they.*
There is more bloody death in their hands than we could ever wield, unless we lay down our souls to become them, and then we will lose everything. So instead,
Imagine winning. This is your sacred task.
This is your power. Imagine every detail of winning, the exact smell of the summer streets in which no one has been shot, the muscles you have never unclenched from worry, gone soft as newborn skin, the sparkling taste of food when we know that no one on earth is hungry, that the beggars are fed, that the old man under the bridge and the woman wrapping herself in thin sheets in the back seat of a car, and the children who suck on stones,
nest under a flock of roofs that keep multiplying their shelter.
Lean with all your being towards that day when the poor of the world shake down a rain of good fortune out of the heavy clouds, and justice rolls down like waters.

Defend the world in which we win as if it were your child.
It is your child.
Defend it as if it were your lover.
It is your lover.

When you inhale and when you exhale breathe the possibility of another world into the 37.2 trillion cells of your body until it shines with hope.
Then imagine more.

Imagine rape is unimaginable. Imagine war is a scarcely credible rumor.
That the crimes of our age, the grotesque inhumanities of greed, the sheer and astounding shamelessness of it, the vast fortunes made by stealing lives, the horrible normalcy it came to have,
is unimaginable to our heirs, the generations of the free.

Don't waver. Don't let despair sink its sharp teeth into the throat with which you sing. Escalate your dreams.
Make them burn so fiercely that you can follow them down any dark alleyway of history and not lose your way.
Make them burn clear as a starry drinking gourd
Over the grim fog of exhaustion, and keep walking.

Hold hands. Share water. Keep imagining.
So that we, and the children of our children's children may live.

-Aurora Levins Morales

Durme Durme (Sleep Sleep)
(Ladino lullaby from Bosnia; composer unknown)

Durme durme izhiko de madre,	Sleep, sleep, mama's child,
Durme durme sin ansia y dolor. (2x)	Sleep, sleep without worry and pain.
 Sienti joya palavrikas de tu madre,	 Feel the joy of your mama's words,
Las palavras de Shema Yisrael. (2x)	The words of the Shema.
 Durme durme izhiko de madre,	 Sleep, sleep, mama's child,
Con ermozura de Shema Yisrael. (2x)	With the beauty of the Shema.

Unetannah Tokef (Let Us Speak of the Awesomeness)

On Rosh Hashonah will be inscribed,
And on Yom Kippur will be sealed:
How many will pass from the earth and how many will be created,
Who will live and who will die,
Who by water and who by fire,
Who by upheaval and who by plague,
Who will rest and who will wander,
Who will live in harmony and who will be harried,
Who will enjoy tranquility and who will suffer,
Who will be impoverished and who will be enriched,
Who will be humbled and who will be exalted.

At the turning of the year
we look back, look ahead, see that we are always in the days between.

- Marcia Falk

19.

What we are shapes what we become. Unetannah Tokef tells us that the child is parent to the adult. But it tells us also that we are capable of changing the outcome, through Tefillah, Tsedokah, and Teshuvah.

Tefillah, called prayer, derives from the word for honest self-reflection.

Tsedokah, commonly called charity, derives from the word Tsadik, a person who acts justly towards others.

Teshuvah, commonly translated as repentance, refers to repentance from Khet, the Hebrew word for sin. This word has its origins in archery, where it meant “missing the mark.” Such is the Jewish concept of sin — the missing of one’s goal, losing sight of the important things in life.

But there is another way to understand Teshuvah. The word can be translated to mean “turning:” turning to hit the mark, turning back to ourselves and our values and our capacities to act justly in community and in the world.

Our Jewish tradition calls us to honest self-reflection, justice, and turning. We must ask ourselves if we have hit the mark — as individuals, as members of families, and as members of our communities.

When I'm Gone (Phil Ochs)

There's no place in this world where I'll belong when I'm gone,
And I won't know the right from the wrong when I'm gone,
And you won't find me singin' on this song when I'm gone,
So I guess I'll have to do it while I'm here.

Won't see the golden of the sun when I'm gone,
And the evenings and the mornings will be one when I'm gone,
Can't be singing louder than the guns when I'm gone,
So I guess I'll have to do it while I'm here.

All my days won't be dances of delight when I'm gone,
And the sands will be shifting from my sight when I'm gone,
Can't add my name into the fight when I'm gone,
So I guess I'll have to do it while I'm here.

And I won't be laughing at the lies when I'm gone,
 And I can't question how or when or why when I'm gone,
 Can't live proud enough to die when I'm gone,
 So I guess I'll have to do it while I'm here.

(instrumental interlude)

There's no place in this world where I'll belong when I'm gone,
 And I won't know the right from the wrong when I'm gone,
 And you won't find me singin' on this song when I'm gone,
 So I guess I'll have to do it while I'm here.
 So I guess we'll have to do it while we're here.

The Meaning of Kippur

The word kippur is commonly translated as atonement, but a more literal translation is “covering sin.” This means that there is no abstract forgiveness or absolution. Our actions cannot be undone. Instead, we repair or cover the action and begin afresh. We can make amends. We can seek to do better in the future, understanding that true forgiveness is between people.

We do not request atonement from some supernatural being, but rather we take it upon ourselves to repair and cover our actions, and to begin afresh. And we will take particular responsibility for righting the wrongs specific to our national history, as well as those we wish to repair in ourselves personally.

And so, all are invited to join in each time on “Let us be forgiving.”

For words of hurt,
 For kind words not said,
 For pettiness and hasty judgment,
Let us be forgiving.

For impatience and arrogance,
 For disrespect and hypocrisy,
Let us be forgiving.

For self-absorption and lack of compassion,
 For remaining silent when our voices might have made a difference,
Let us be forgiving.

For withholding our love from those who depend on us,
 For neglecting our heritage that teaches that our fate is bound with the oppressed of all the world,
Let us be forgiving.

For not doing what we could to keep alive and vibrant our people's culture,
 For not rising to fulfill the best that is in us,
Let us be forgiving.

- Jeffrey Kaye/Hershl Hartman

23.

Lo Yisa Goy
(composer unknown)

Lo yisa goy el goy cherev
 Lo yil medu od milchama.

*Nation shall not lift sword against nation,
 Neither shall they learn war anymore.*

24.

In a free society, some are guilty but all are responsible.

--Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel

Let us renew our commitment to working for the better world we know is possible:

- where Black lives matter always and everywhere,
- where we greet the humanity of all people -- even those who are, or seem, most different from ourselves,
- where we recognize the sacredness of all with whom we share the world, human and other-than-human alike,
- where excellent, respectful, and compassionate healthcare is truly a right for everyone,
- where reproductive freedom-- the right to own the personhood of one's own body--is a fundamental part of the just society for which we strive,
- where every child has access to a good education that allows them to be their fullest self,
- where no one is ever hungry or unhoused,
- where everyone is treasured and precious.

May we remember that our nation was built on the labor of enslaved African people.
 May we proclaim that Black Lives Matter and build a world where all of us are free.
 May we celebrate our differences and resist the forces that try to isolate and divide us.
 May we commit to courageously staying in struggle together, even and especially when it is messy and hard.

Do not get lost in a sea of despair. Be hopeful, be optimistic. Our struggle is not the struggle of a day, a week, a month, or a year, it is the struggle of a lifetime. Never, ever be afraid to make some noise and get in good trouble, necessary trouble.

You must be bold, brave, and courageous and find a way... to get in the way.

--John Lewis

Better Times Will Come*(Janis Ian; Yiddish lyrics by Linda Gritz; choral arrangement by Derek David)*

Better times, better times will come.
 Better times, better times will come.
 When this world learns to live as one,
 Oh, better times will come

Better times, better times will come.
 Better times, better times will come.
 When this world learns to live as one,
 Oh, better times will come

When we greet each dawn without fear
 Knowing loved ones soon will be near
 When the winds of war shall not blow any more
 Oh, better times will come
 Oh, better times will come

Though we live each day as our last
 We know someday soon it will pass
 We will dance, we will sing
 In that never-ending spring
 Oh, better times will come
 Oh, better times will come

Kumen vet, kumen vet di tsayt,
 Kumen vet, kumen vet di tsayt,
 Ven di velt vet fareynikt zayn,
 O, kumen vet di tsayt.

*The time will come,
 The time will come,
 When the world will be as one,
 Oh, the time will come.*

Lomir shafn a velt on a shrek
 Ful mit freyd un libshaft on an ek
 Harmonye un haskome,
 Nito mer keyn milkhome,
 O, kumen vet di tsayt.

*Let's create a world without fear,
 Full of joy and love without end,
 Harmony and accord,
 No more war,
 Oh, the time will come.*

Kumen vet, kumen vet di tsayt,
 Kumen vet, kumen vet di tsayt,
 Ven di velt vet fareynikt zayn,
 O, kumen vet di tsayt.
 O, kumen vet di tsayt.

*The time will come,
 The time will come,
 When the world will be as one,
 Oh, the time will come.
 Oh, the time will come.*

Af undz're teg vet kumen a sof
 Naye doynes vaksn, blien uf
 Tantsn un zingen
 In an eybikn friling
 O, kumen vet di tsayt.
 O, kumen vet di tsayt.

*An end will come to our days,
 New generations grow and bloom,
 Dancing and singing
 In a never-ending spring,
 Oh, the time will come.
 Oh, the time will come.*

Better times, better times will come.
 Better times, better times will come.
 When this world learns to live as one,
 Oh, better times will come.

Self Reflection

Today we peer into the mirror,
 Unsettled, squirming, poking at the soft underbelly of our lives,
 The kaleidoscope of feeling, thought, action, experience,
 Tangled together to make the thorny, blossomed, leafy vine that is us.

Exposed in this private public space,
 We conjure up the uncomfortable.
 The impatient moment with a toddler,
 The harsh word with a teenager,
 The angry outburst at family or friend,
 The insensitivity towards a coworker,
 The rally missed, the letter unwritten,
 The cause unsupported,
 The hostility born of fear and insecurity.

From the actual to the metaphorical,
 We take account.

Did we act with accountability to the people who are essential to our lives?

The unhoused office cleaner, the migrant farm worker who harvests our produce, the hospital cleaners and aides who help us get well, the grocery workers, the bus drivers who get those other essential workers to work?

Did we take action when we learned that Black people and other people of color got infected with COVID and died at dramatically higher rates than white people?

Did we value the children of those workers who endanger their health to help us stay healthy?

Did we temper our own complaints about inconvenience by thinking of the many people, a majority of them poor and Black and other people of color, who lost their jobs, got no unemployment benefits, and had to depend on the kindness of strangers for food?

Did we search for the sounds of children separated from their families at the southern border, the traumatized, the powerless, the hopeless?

Did we act with personal or collective bravery in the risky quest for social justice?

Did we embrace our passionately held differences with respect and openness to each other's pain and beliefs?

On this day, we squirm, prod, and pick at our wounds, weak links, moments of shame,
On this day, together, we inch forward, zigzagging, hoping, mending,
Searching for an honest face and an honest friend in this private public reflection.

--Adapted from Alice Rothchild June 9, 2003

28.

As we make ourselves vulnerable in these expressions of atonement, Kippur, our thoughts naturally turn to those in particular need of healing in our concentric circles of community. All those who have family or friends who are ill or in need, we invite you to rise in body or spirit as we play the music for Mi Shebeyrakh. May you and your loved ones be supported and comforted in this time of need.

29.

Mi Shebeyrakh (Who Blesses)

[Mi Shebeyrakh is a part of the traditional service for those who wish to have healing and supportive words said for the sick.]

(Mi Shebeyrakh instrumental followed by nign; composed by Debbie Friedman)

[Mi shebeyrakh avoteynu, m'kor habrokha l'imoteynu. May the love we shared with those who came before us help us find the courage to make our lives a blessing.]

(Be seated)

30.

Yizkor (Remembrance)

[At Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur, we set aside a special time for remembering the dead. We recite Yizkor to remember those who have gone before, to remind ourselves how we should live.]

I Recall (Marcia Falk)

interwoven with

We Remember Them (Jack Riemer and Sylvan D. Kamens)

All are invited to join in each time on “we remember them.”

I call them to mind and heart,
the texture of their life,
its presence in mine.

In the rising of the sun and in its going down, we remember them.
In the blowing of the wind and in the chill of winter, we remember them.

Images rise up and fall away,
moments in the current of time—

In the opening of the buds and in the rebirth of spring, we remember them.
In the blueness of the sky and in the warmth of summer, we remember them.

tender, harsh,
extraordinary,
mundane,

In the rustling of the leaves and in the beauty of autumn, we remember them.
In the beginning of the year and when it ends, we remember them.

May the threads of memory be woven into the fabric of my life and bring healing

When we are weary and in need of strength, we remember them.
When we are lost and sick at heart, we remember them.
When we have joys we yearn to share, we remember them.

So long as we live, they too shall live,
For they are now a part of us, as we remember them.

31.

Our Jewish traditions invite us to honor our grief communally, to break from the focus on productivity and engage in the sometimes inconvenient but always important work of grieving so that we can honor those who might otherwise be forgotten. We take this time to remember the names of family or friends who have passed away.

We will first read names that you submitted in advance to be read aloud on your behalf. Then, all who wish to call out a name, please stand up together one row at a time, as you are able, then take turns and call out the name so all can hear and share in your memory. Please be seated after you have called out the name.

All are invited to reflect or meditate as the sounds of these treasured names wash over our community.

32.Avinu Malkeinu / Etz Khayim

(instrumental during reading of names submitted in advance)

(Read aloud names submitted in advance)

(Call out names row by row)

33.*Kaddish (Holy)

It is an ancient custom to kindle a yortsayt candle and recite Kaddish for the departed. We invite you to rise in body or spirit, and say Kaddish.

Making Peace, Working for Justice

As in years past, we continue to grapple with the ongoing question of peace and justice for Palestinians and Israelis. Some of us throw ourselves into this work and others are weary of all the unending misery and turmoil. May we find strength and renewed energy from the following parable.

A learned rabbi was asked,

Rabbi, how can you tell exactly when the night is over and day has begun?

Is it when you walk in the forest and can tell the difference between a wolf and a dog?

No, the rabbi replied.

Is it when you walk in town and can see where the roof of one house ends and the roof of the next house begins?

No, the rabbi replied.

So how can you tell when the night is over?

And the rabbi answered, When you can see the face of a stranger and recognize a sibling, then that is when the night is truly over.

37.

The Talmud says, "Who is a hero? The one who turns an enemy into a friend." The essence of our Jewish heritage is the love of justice and the moral concept of human freedom and dignity. May that heritage guide us in our behavior toward those with whom we have conflict, not just our friends.

The great sage Hillel said,

If I am not for myself, who will be for me?

But if I am only for myself, who am I?

If not now, when?

Adrienne Rich added,

If not with others, how?

A Few Reasons to Oppose the War

because wind sighs in the branches of trees like blood sighing through veins

because in each country there are songs huddled like wet-feathered birds

because even though the news has nothing new to say and keeps on saying it
NO still fights its way into the world

because for every bomb that is readied a baby nestles into her mother latches onto a nipple beaded with milk

because the tulips have waited all winter in the cold dark earth

because each morning the wildflowers outside my window raise their yellow faces to the sun

because we are all so helplessly in love with the light

May we have the courage to work for peace with justice in Israel/Palestine, around the world, and at home, where our national soul is threatened by growing antisemitic, racist, Islamophobic, anti-immigrant, homophobic, transphobic, and misogynistic attacks and more and more extreme versions of hate. And let us commit ourselves to ensuring more just and equitable voting systems. Let us examine our own neighborhoods and ask whose voices are not represented and what needs to change.

One Voice (Ruth Moody/The Wailin' Jennys)

This is the sound of one voice
One spirit, one voice
The sound of one who makes a choice
This is the sound of one voice. (2x)

This is the sound of voices two
 The sound of me singing with you
 Helping each other to make it through
 This is the sound of voices two. (2x)

This is the sound of voices three Singing together in harmony
 Surrendering to the mystery
 This is the sound of voices three. (2x)

This is the sound of all of us
 Singing with love and the will to trust
 Leave the rest behind it will turn to dust
 This is the sound of all of us. (2x)

This is the sound of one voice
 One people, one voice
 A song for every one of us
 This is the sound of one voice. (2x)

D'var (Word)

*[Traditionally, the d'var is a commentary on the week's Torah portion.
 In our d'var, a member of our community is invited to provide personal reflections.]*

Peace Salaam Shalom*(Pat Humphries; additional music, lyrics, and choral arrangement by Lisa Gallatin)*

45.

Whether we dip apples in honey or in sugar or in sweetened ground sesame seeds to usher in a healthy and sweet new year, Jews around the world share a common bond. As we say in Ladino, todos los dedos de la mano no son unos. All the fingers of the hand are not the same.

46.

Blowing the Shofar

We declare the utter sanctity of this day for it is an awe-filled day.

A great Shofar is sounded and a voice of slender silence is heard.

The voice is one's own -- a reed in the chorus,
a breath in the wind.

These are the final moments when the gates stand open, when the Book of Life is not yet sealed. Between blasts we hear an aching silence. And in each blast we hear a deeper silence, our own silence of yearning and craving and striving to live justly. The Days of Awe have asked us to hear that sound, to turn and act and respond.

47.

In these final blasts of the Shofar, hear all of our sounds.

Hear Tekiah, one long note for the sounding of the alarm, the sound of remembrance.

Hear Shevarim, three sets of two notes, with each low note reminding us that life may bring fear, frustration, tragedy, and sorrow, and each high note of hope that life will also bring us happiness and serenity.

Hear Teruah, nine short notes for the call to action, the call to the never-ending struggle for peace, justice, and human decency.

Hear, finally, the last shofar call. Tekiah Gedolah is held for as long as possible. While the shofar sounds, the gates and the book remain open. Until the final blast ends, the gate of possibility is open.

Let us, each of us, in our own way, with our own words and thoughts and with whatever energy we can muster, resolve to live honestly, true to our beliefs and values, take that final step through the gates and meet on the other side together as a community, dedicated to life, to peace, to making our lives better, and to making the world a better and more just and beautiful place.

Call out the Shofar's notes and it will answer.

(Shofar blasts after each part is named)

(All)

Tekiah (shofar blasts)

Shevarim (shofar blasts)

Teruah (shofar blasts)

Tekiah Gedolah (shofar blasts)

The Shofar has called us Awake. With its sound in resonance with our own, we remember the world we strive to create, we remember what we have resolved to become.

48.

Ne'lah (The Gates Are Closing)

The gates of the Days of Awe are closing.
We have gathered together in ritual, in contemplation, in song.
We have knocked on our hearts, imploring them to open.
We have tried with all our might to forgive ourselves our missed marks.

And now the gates are closing.

But there is still work to be done, with our hearts and with our hands.

The gates are closing.
This is the moment when we make the turn -- teshuvah, turning our lives around, returning to our highest selves.

Bring more light to the world. More sustenance. More shelter.

For those in darkness. For those in need. For everyone.

- adapted from Rabbi Rachel Barenblat's blog The Velveteen Rabbi

49.

Gut yontef, gut yor.

A happy and healthy new year to all.

Ke tengas munchos anyos!

May you have many years!

May we all turn to hit the mark for a more beautiful world.

A shenere velt.

And a better world.

A besere velt.

Never Turning Back*(Pat Humphries; 4th verse by Roger Rosen)*

We're gonna keep on moving forward,
 Keep on moving forward,
 Keep on moving forward,
 Never turning back, never turning back.

We're gonna keep on moving proudly . . .

We're gonna light the way together . . .

We're gonna show our children courage. . .

We're gonna keep on moving forward . . .
